Who's that girl?

Elvira and Madonna right here at Romulus high school? In a sense, yes, the two teen idols did make guest appearances at the local school, but only as part of the homecoming week activities and only because a few Romulus students had taken their image on for a day. The students were participating in the spirit day theme Monday. Students were asked to dress like their favorite movie stars. The day was the kickoff of a week of homecoming activities, which include spirit days the remainder of the week, a parade and football game Friday and homecoming dance Saturday. School officials are promising to make the dance "the best ever" and have enlisted the aid of Detroit disc jockey Michael J. Fox to ensure that the promise is fulfilled. Already enjoying the week of fun were Romulus students Amy McDonald (above, from left), Deitra Brown and Shane Paszkowski, who dressed as Joan Jett, Elvira and Madonna. Jodee Jernigan (left) also made passersby take a second look, as she posed as Marilyn Monroe. For more on the activities, see page A-3. ANP photos by Ann Grimes/staff photographer

Try, try again

Millage defeat would spur program cuts

By RAY DAY
ANP Managing Editor

Two Nov. 8 ballot proposals for the Romulus Community Schools will determine the fate of several student programs scheduled to be eliminated in January.

School board members have again placed on the ballot two millage issues which would help abolish a current $1.4 million operating-budget deficit. The ballot proposals have been rejected three times by the voters – in March, June and August.

Officials in the district say that another rejection by voters would mean considerable cuts in student programming, including shortening the school day from six to five hours and the layoff of 31 teachers and four other staff members.

The programming cuts would be effective in the second semester of the current school year and would save the district $768,500 through June. Next school year, the cuts would mean a $1.7 million savings for the district.

"Our biggest problem is in the language of the ballot. It reads as a tax increase, but it won't change the taxes," explained Dr. William Bedell, superintendent of schools.

The financial answers for the district depend on passage of both ballot issues, Bedell said. The first proposal asks voters to approve a 4.5-mill tax increase for general school operations in the 1988-89 school year. The second proposal requests a 2-mill tax hike for the 1989-90 and 1990-91 school years.

Nevertheless, if the two tax increases are approved, school-district residents will not actually see an increase in their total tax bill, according to Bedell.

School programs to be cut

Romulus school officials said they will reduce the following school programs if the two millage issues are rejected by voters Nov. 8.

- Eliminate one hour of school day by placing grades one to 12 on a five-hour day.
- Increase class size.
- Eliminate entire athletic program at all schools, including all spring sports.
- Cut elementary instrumental music.
- Cancel all extra-curricular activities.
- Reduce professional support staff.
- Curtail non-teaching support services.
- Eliminate all field trips and activity buses.
- Cancel drivers education.
- Curtail in-service subs.
- Restrict community use of buildings - close buildings on weekends.
- Reduce textbooks, supplies and materials.
- Layoff 31 teachers.
- Layoff four other staff members.

Two millage rates are levied for taxpayers in the school district. The general operation millage – currently set at 43.65 mills – is used to fund the day-to-day operations of the system. A second, debt-retirement millage is also levied – currently set at 5.50 mills. Debt-retirement funds are collected to repay the borrowed monies used to build new schools and fund other capital improvements.

Currently, the district faces a $1.4 million general-operations fund deficit, while also en-

Residents react to tax authority

By RAY DAY
ANP Managing Editor

Romulus residents filled city council chambers Monday night, scrutinizing a new taxing authority and questioning the developer who requested it.

The residents attended a public hearing on the proposed establishment of a land development finance authority to replace the now defunct tax increment finance authority in the city. The hearing was staged before the city council meeting.

Creation of a LDFA district – which was subsequently approved by council members during their meeting – was requested by Romulus developer Wendell C. Flynn. Flynn hopes to construct a series of four industrial buildings at Wick Road and Middlebelt to house office and light industrial firms.

The project, which is to include 500,000 square feet of new buildings, has been valued by city officials at between $8 and $10 million. Flynn said, with personal property added, the development could be someday worth $80 or $90 million.

Flynn submitted a site plan for the first of the four buildings in August. Action on the plan was tabled by members of the city planning commission, who expressed concern about the need for an access to the industrial park from Wick Road.

Such an access does not currently exist.

Consequently, Flynn asked city council members to consider the establishment of the LDFA district. LDFA districts, created in a 1987 state law, allow a municipality to make public improvements to an area – roads, sewers, lighting, land acquisition – in hopes of attracting new development and jobs.

The creation of an access from Wick Road would be such a public improvement, according to Dennis Oakes, Romulus economic development director.

In the LDFA, a region is marked off to participate in the plan. Within that region, a project area is designated, Oakes said.

Once the project area has been declared, all property values within the area are frozen. Bonds are then generally issued, and monies secured are used to fund public improvements.

With public improvements in place, new development will ideally locate within the area and spur increased property values. With increased property values, taxes will increase. Using the frozen property values as a base line, all newly generated tax revenues are then used to repay the bonds issued.

When all bonds have been repaid, the LDFA is dismantled, and the property values are unfrozen, Oakes said.

The concept of a LDFA is similar to the TIFA plan used extensively by developers in

History preservers keep hearts set on warm, new city museum

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

Now that the outside of the Romulus Historical Museum is nearly completed, members of the society will concentrate their efforts on the inside.

Pearl Varner, president of the Society, said getting heat in the building is now a top priority. Members hope to see some gas lines installed before the temperatures decline.

Once heating is installed, Society members will work to increase their collections of Romulus historical items.

"It will be an archives in a smaller sense," Varner said.

She said the perimeter of the museum will be lined with cases and filled with small items of historical significance. The larger portion of the museum will be dedicated to work tables for residents who wish to research Romulus history.

"We aren't taking larger items like appliances, furniture and farm equipment, because we just don't have the room," Varner said.

Society members hope to someday acquire a house, which could be used to display the larger items.

The members have been collecting items since 1980, Varner said.

"We have quite a collection already," she explained. "It's been difficult keeping up with marking them all."

While the collection is already quite substantial, Varner said she would like to see many more so displays at the museum could be changed periodically.

Many documents have already been collected for the museum, but, Varner said, member would like to have even more diaries, maps, abstracts, books and township records.

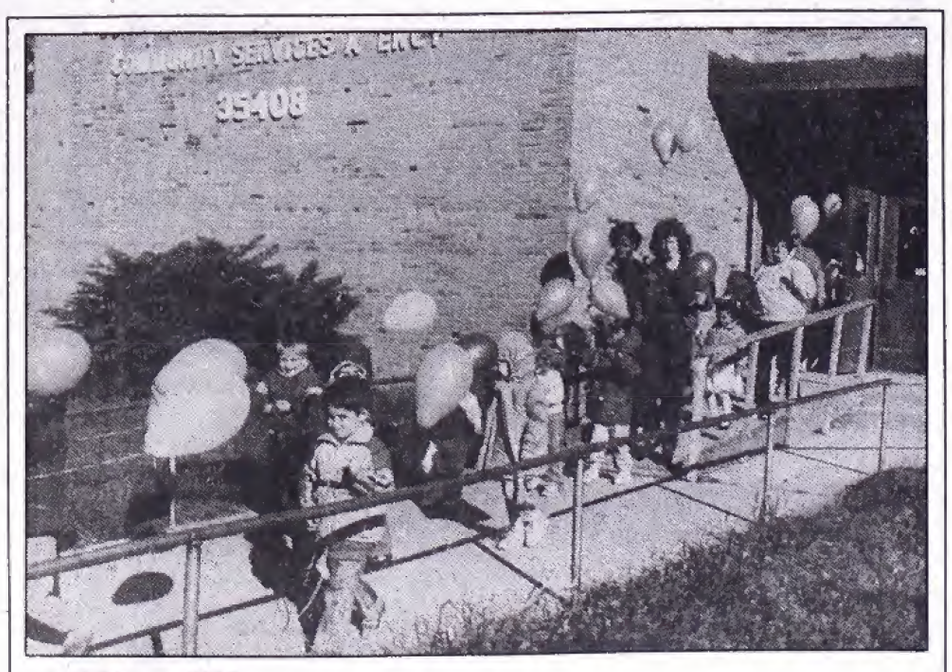
Clothing is also sought for the museum.

"We have mannequins that we will dress in the old clothing," Varner said.

Donations of old jewelry, toys, dolls, mugs, buttons and other artifacts are always accepted.

However, Varney said, Society member are only accepting items connected to Romulus history, because room is so limited.

If you have items to donate, call Varner at 697-9628.



Lift off!

Spirits were high, as were the helium-filled balloons, Friday, as parents and youngsters participating in the Romulus Head Start program joined in a balloon lift-off. The event was designed as one activity of the program, which is tailored to 3- and 4-year-olds in the area. The local Head Start program is housed and coordinated by the Wayne Metropolitan Community Services Agency, 35408 Beverly Road, Romulus. Call 728-7510 for more information. County wetlands report issued

A report from the 20-member county wetlands task force has been issued, according to Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara.

In January, McNamara appointed members to the group to look at issues related to the loss of wetlands in Wayne County and the impact of wetlands on industry and recreation.

In the report, task force members were in agreement that the current system for wetland protection needs to be refined, McNamara said. Among 15 task force recommendations was a "wetland land bank." The concept would require that wetlands be developed in advance and that, if a developer discovers an existing wetland, he could use the wetland bank as mitigation for the existing wetland.

The report suggested that several county-owned lands be used in the wetland bank. The bank, according to the report, should be used only for commercial and industrial developments.

'Have a heart'

Campaign stresses special education

By JIM RINK
ANP Staff Writer

Members of Wayne County Friends of Handicapped Kids are asking voters to "have heart" in the general election, Nov. 8.

"You've gotta have heart" is the theme being used by the group as it promotes an upcoming ballot request for special education funds. Members of the Wayne County Intermediate School District Board of Education recently approved placing the issue on the ballot for a second time.

The request, narrowly defeated in the August primary, would increase the current tax rate of one mill for special education by one additional mill.

The action is supported by the Wayne County Association of School Administrators and follows extensive examination of Act 18 funding for special education programs in the county.

Act 18 funding was approved by Wayne County voters in 1974 to assess a countywide one-mill levy to help support programs and services for handicapped children in Wayne County.

The formula was designed to help defray the added costs of educating handicapped students not covered by categorical state aid and student membership monies.

"There has been no special education millage increase in Wayne County since 1974," said James Greiner, associate superintendent of WCISD, "and while services to Wayne County students have increased, levels of state support have been reduced."

Greiner said local school districts are legally required to meet the special education needs of students and the special education millage offers major financial support to each district.

"During the 1982-83 school year, it became clear that the Act 18 revenue was inadequate to meet all center program added costs," continued Greiner, "resulting in a shortfall of two percent. This shortfall was made up by charging back two percent of the center program added costs to the resident school districts sending students to each program."

More than 35,000 handicapped students, infancy to age 26, benefit from special education programs and services in Wayne County. Of these, some 6,000 attend center or regional programs which serve the low-incidence handicapped, such as the autistic or severely, multiply-impaired.

The small number of severely handicapped individuals in a single school district makes it more efficient and cost-effective, said Greiner, to educate them in multi-district programs.

Fourteen school districts currently serve as operating or host districts for one or more center programs.

Center programs in western Wayne County are operated by districts in Garden City, Livonia, Northville, Redford Union, Romulus and Wayne-Westland.

Since 1982-83, the charge back to local Wayne County school districts has increased because of increasing shortfalls associated with available Act 18 revenue.

During 1982-83, local district chargebacks totaled $519,929. The shortfall for the 1988-89 school year is projected at $12 million.

Tax district attracts firm

Romulus City Council members Monday night approved the establishment of an industrial-development district, as requested by officials from the 275 Investment Co., of Dearborn.

275 Investment officials are currently negotiating the purchase of a 39-acre parcel of land near the C&O railroad tracks and Pennsylvania Road. Officials say they have a potential tenant for the property, and "tax abatement is a prime concern if they locate in Romulus," 275 officials said.

The unnamed tenant would occupy 120,000 square feet of space and hire between 150 and 200 local residents, city officials said.

A public hearing has been set to discuss the establishment of the district at 7:45 p.m. Monday, Oct. 24, in city hall.

Residents soon to enjoy water

Four residents in the Hannan Road area will enjoy city water this spring, after city council members Monday night approved the installation of a 12-inch water main on Hannan Road.

Three of the residents had been relying on a temporary water supply, while one resident used a well. The resident using the well complained of a substantial amount of rust in her water, which was discoloring fabric and appliances, she said.

The new water main will be sufficient to meet the water needs of the four homes and any future homes constructed on Hannan Road, city officials said.

School workers net recognition

Romulus school district employees were recognized today, during the first-ever employee recognition ceremony and reception at the high school.

The program, which began at 2 p.m., was hosted by members of the board of education and was designed to give recognition to employees with 10 or more years of service to the district.

Special recognition was also given to some staff members.

The occasion was also used to announce a new employee recognition program, the "Extra Miler." The award will go to two employees each month who go the "extra mile" beyond the call of duty.

The employees recognition will be an annual event, school officials said.

2 will retire in area schools

Romulus school district employees Blondell Butler and Joan Murray have announced their retirements.

Butler, a cafeteria worker at Romulus Junior High School, will retire Nov. 23. Murray, a custodian at Wick Elementary School, retires Jan. 1.

School board is praised

Members of the Romulus Community Schools Board of Education were lauded Friday by the Michigan Association of School Boards.

Members were recognized for the fact that more than 50 percent of board members were eligible to receive an award of merit. The award was given during a luncheon hosted by the MASB.

The award is based primarily on attendance by board members at MASB events, according to Romulus school officials.

Library programs begin new season

The Biblions of the Romulus Public Library begin their new season at 4 p.m. Thursday, at the library.

The program, which continues until 5 p.m., is open to all interested 11- to 14-year-olds who enjoy reading and doing volunteer projects for the library.

Subsequent meetings are scheduled every other Thursday. Call 942-7589 for more information.

Homecoming: Week set to 'be the best yet'

By RAY DAY
ANP Managing Editor

Monday, it was the movie stars. Today, it's the college scene. And, Saturday, Michael J. Fox will be coming to town – as will the king and queen.

But why not? The Romulus Senior High School homecoming event comes but once each year.

OK, a few explanations. The movie stars? They were the students participating in the theme of the day.

The college scene? Again, the theme for today is college day, and all students were urged to wear either a college shirt or sweatshirt to school.

Michael J. Fox? He's not the actor, but he is the popular disc jockey from WHYT 96 FM, in Detroit, who will be spinning the records for students attending the homecoming dance Saturday night.

The king and queen? They are easy to explain, as they are the two bits of student royalty chosen from the 10-member Romulus homecoming court this week. The 10 finalists were selected from a field of 49 students last week.

A long list of students events were planned this week to celebrate the annual homecoming of Romulus students past and present, according to Mike Birmingham, student council advisor. Each of the five days in the week was chosen as a theme day.

A class activities competition was also staged Monday afternoon, including the famed volleyball game and lime roll.

The highlights of homecoming week will be the parade – beginning at 5 p.m. Friday – football game at 7 and homecoming dance from 7:30 to 11:30 p.m. Saturday. The dance has been billed as extra special this year and is a true bargain at $10 per couple or $6 for individuals.

Tickets are available at the door.

"This is the biggest dance we've had. We're expecting 500 people," Birmingham said. "We've got 150 helium-filled balloons, flowers on all the tables, a kind of night club setup, a virgin-drink bar and movies playing all night."

Theme of homecoming this year is "old movies." To accent the decor, movie posters will be hung in the gym lobby during the dance, and popcorn will be served at the dance buffet, which will also feature cold cuts and sandwiches.

Other homecoming fun-filled facts include:

• ■ The homecoming parade begins at 5 p.m. Friday from the city hall parking lot. The procession heads down Goddard Road to Neville, turns right on to Neville, then right at Ozga. The parade continues to the junior high.

Anyone or any business wishing to participate in the parade is asked to report to the city hall parking lot at 4:30 Friday.

■ The homecoming game begins at 7:30 p.m. Friday. Pregame begins at 7:15. Halftime will begin at approximately 8:15.

During halftime, the marching band will perform, and the homecoming king and queen will be announced. The winner of the float competition and spirit jug will also be named.

Millage

joying a $1.5 million cash surplus in the debt-retirement account. School officials want to transfer money from one account to the other, but approval is necessary from the voters.

Voter approval is needed, Bedell said, because the district millage rates would actually be changed. If the two proposals were approved, the general operation millage rate would increase 4.5 mills the first year – from 43.65 to 48.15 – and 2 mills the second – from 43.65 to 45.65.

Meanwhile, the debt-retirement millage rate would be reduced 4.5 mills the first year – from 5.5 to 1.0 – and 2 mills the second – 5.5 to 3.5.

A resolution to allow the reduction in the debt-retirement millage rate if the two millage issues are accepted was approved by school board members during their meeting Monday night.

Nevertheless, the complexity of the financial millage-rate footwork has meant the death of the ballot proposals in the past, Bedell said. This time, however, school officials are hoping to ride the coattails of the presidential election.

"The advantage we have this time is that it is going to be a big turnout," Bedell explained. "That's to our advantage because people tend to be supportive of schools. Those who tend to support us, we hope, will be voting."

The two ballot proposals were narrowly defeated in the past three elections. The issues were rejected by approximately 200 votes in March, 80 in June and 300 in August.

To ensure a Nov. 8 victory, school officials have enlisted the aid of approximately 100 parents to educate voters on the ballot proposals. An open house was also staged Tuesday night at Halecreek Elementary to discuss the issues, and informational brochures were sent to most residents.

Although school officials are remaining optimistic about passage of the two millage issues, they are also preparing for the worst in terms of the district financial picture. If the millage issues are defeated, school officials have already developed a list of student programs to be axed.

The programming cuts would save enough money to eliminate the current budget deficit after several years, Bedell said. However, the slashed programs, most likely, would not be restored due to increasing costs and financial obligations of the district.

One of the most serious ramifications of the cuts, however, would be a possible loss of accreditation from the North Central Accreditation Committee, Bedell said. Without accreditation, Romulus students may find it more difficult to be accepted into colleges and universities after graduation.

Nevertheless, if the two millage issues are approved, programming in the district will continue as it is now structured, Bedell said.

School budget is approved

A $24.7 million operating budget for the 1988-89 school year was approved by members of the Romulus Community Schools Board of Education Monday night.

The budget represents a 4.6-percent increase in total revenues and expenditures compared to the 1987-88 financial plan. The new budget was prepared assuming that two millage proposals on the Nov. 8 ballot will be approved by voters, according to Dr. William Bedell, superintendent of schools.

If the millage issues are rejected, the budget will be amended after the election, Bedell said. School board members have until Nov. 1 to adopt the operating budget for the school year.

To fund the budget, school officials are relying on almost $18 million in local taxes and $5.5 million in state aid. That is a change from $14.9 million in local taxes and $6.2 million in state aid last year.

Most of the district revenues remain unchanged or feature a small inflationary increase in the new budget, Bedell said. The exceptions are employee health benefits premiums, which increased 20 percent compared to last year.

No programs or staffing were added or cut in the new financial plan, Bedell said.

Tax

the early 1980s. But, because of lawsuits and staunch opposition by school districts, state lawmakers prohibited the creation or expansion of TIFA districts after 1986.

Three TIFA project areas are currently in place in Romulus.

School officials and representatives from other taxing districts have long opposed TIFA plans because they freeze all new taxes within a district and redirect the funds to repay bonds. Thus, the taxing officials feel, they lose out on potential tax dollars.

In the new LDFA legislation, however, state lawmakers have limited the scope of the plan. Unlike TIFAs, LDFAs can be used only for industrial projects. In addition, the governing board for the LDFA must have representation from the city, the county board of commissioners, the community college and the school district.

Residents at the Monday meeting questioned the impact industrial projects spurred by the LDFA plan would have on their home values. They also asked Flynn why he needed the LDFA, since he was already granted TIFA funding for an earlier project.

Flynn addressed the audience, saying his TIFA project spurred $4.7 million in new property values for the city. While commending the citizens for their concern, Flynn also stressed the need for LDFA plans to help attract new developments to the city.

At their council meeting which followed the public hearing, council members unanimously approved the creation of the LDFA district. City officials now expect Flynn to submit further details on his industrial project before they designate the Wick-Middlebelt area as a LDFA project area and agree to fund public improvements there.

Annual meeting staged

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

Wayne County commissioners officially opened a new governmental session by staging the annual county meeting Thursday.

The annual meeting is a remnant of the board of commissioners from 100 years ago, according to Richard Wolfe, clerk of the commission. The commission once met only once or twice each year, so the annual meeting was necessary, Wolfe said.

It is no longer possible, however, for commissioners to conduct all county business in just one meeting, so the annual meeting marks the beginning of the new session.

"There's nothing really special about the annual meeting," Wolfe said. "It's just a way to recall the past."

At the annual meeting, commissioners are presented with reports and issues which will come before them, such as appointments and reapportioning of taxes.

Because there are now so many communities in the county, Wolfe said, it takes longer to reapportion taxes. The process must be completed by the end of the month.

Wolfe described the meeting as an introduction to the coming legislative year.

Transportation secretary in town for airport

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

U.S. Secretary of Transportation James H. Burnley IV visited with Detroit Metropolitan Airport officials and County Executive Edward McNamara Monday to discuss airport-expansion plans.

In a brief press conference following a closed-door meeting, Burnley said he was impressed with expansion plans and said he would convey that message to officials in Washington, who will dole out federal funds for the project.

U.S. officials are expected to announce soon how much federal funding will be available for construction at Metro.

"I'm most impressed with the unified support behind the project," Burnley said.

The federal government official said it was impressive to see an airport and community working together with such unity. This type of progress, Burnley said, will also impress those with their hands on the purse strings.

Deputy County Executive Michael Duggan said airport officials and the county are making great strides in negotiations with Northwest Airlines. Airline officials, with corporate headquarters at Metro, had made specific requests for expansion, some of which did not meet county plans, Duggan said.

"We let them (Northwest) know that expansion had to do more than meet Northwest's short-term needs," Duggan said.

He added that these and other problems with the airlines are gradually being overcome.

Duggan said County Executive McNamara is anxious to clean up what the media has termed "the Metro mess."

To accommodate growth at Metro airport, a three-phase capital-improvement project has been planned. The plan will take 10 years to complete and will feature a price tag of $450 million.

County officials hope to share the financial burden of the project with the state and with local communities, as well as with the federal government.

Expansion at the airport will include the addition of a terminal, two new runways, improved ground trasportation and a state-of-the-art control tower.

Testing has already been done to determine the exact position and height of the new air-traffic control tower. The tower, one of the highest in the country, will be built south of the existing tower, near the middle of airport operations.

A new runway is set for construction west of the existing runways, running north to south. The second runway will run east to west and will be located south of existing runways.

Tyler pupils rewarded for positive behavior

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

It pays to do something nice, especially it you're a student at Tyler Elementary School, in Belleville.

The Assertive Discipline program, in its fifth year at the school, has helped encourage good behavior and discipline in a majority of the students at the school, according to Donald Priest, Tyler principal.

As part of the program, students can earn a "gold slip" for performing helpful duties around the school or for displaying positive behavior.

"Students can get a gold slip for doing helpful things around the building. It's a little pat on the back for the kids for doing a good job," Priest said.

But the good news is, the positive behavior is aimed at benefitting an entire class, as well as individual students. Each time a student performs a kind gesture, they receive a marble. The marble goes into a jar in the classroom. If the jar is filled by the end of the month, that class will win an extra award.

"The award for the class is decided by the students. They might want to have an ice cream party, extra recess, a special movie, a story read to them, extra gym period, or something like that," Priest said.

This year, an extra incentive was added to the program. Each classroom, Priest said, will have a gold slip drawing at the end of each month. The winner in the drawing will receive a $5 gift certificate to Toys-R-Us.

While good behavior is rewarded, bad behavior also earns notices. A student who is caught being mean or misbehaving receives a pink slip.

At the end of each month, students with less than two pink slips are invited to attend the monthly school assembly.

"Our philosophy is that they get one warning so they can still go to the assembly. I was very pleased with the students this year. About 90 percent of the children were at the assembly. We are trying to keep it as positive as possible," Priest said.

A live wildlife presentation dealing with birds highlighted the September assembly.

The concept of the program has already been grasped by students at Tyler - where it really does pay to do something nice.

Romulus high students net taste of college

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

Juniors at Romulus High School tasted college life last week.

About 250 students from the school attended classes and an orientation at Eastern Michigan University, according to Dan Hurst, assistant principal at the high school.

While at the university, students could attend a morning biology or earth science class lecture. In the afternoon, they were invited to attend other classes.

"The students could go and sit in on a class being taught. The professor taught the students as if they were real college freshmen," Hurst said. "They went to a little orientation and were told what they would need to go to college."

While at the orientation, Hurst said, EMU clothing and football tickets were raffled off to the students.

Students also enjoyed an all-you-can-eat lunch at the university cafeteria.

Hurst said it was a big day for the students and a good learning experience. Now they will know what to expect when they get to college.

Most of the students had a positive reaction to the experience, Hurst said, and most said they plan to go onto college.

"The students all said they had a good day. On the way back, (to the high school) kids were talking about EMU and getting more information on the school," Hurst said.

Next month juniors will visit Wayne County Community College, Hurst said.

State lawmakers recess for vote

State lawmakers completed a two-week session of the state Legislature Sept. 29 and adjourned until Nov. 10 – after the Nov. 8 general election.

When the lawmakers return, only a few legislative days will remain before the session is completed for the year. When the lawmakers return after the Christmas holiday, all matters left before the recess will die, since a new session begins fresh in January.

New license plates debut

Michigan motorists may soon be able to purchase special license plates coated entirely with a reflective material. The new plates are designed to make it easier for law-enforcement officials to identify automobiles.

Senate Bill 1027 would amend the Michigan Vehicle Code to allow the Department of State to implement a voluntary program to issue the special safety license plate. The plate, completely coated with a reflective material, would be issued to each applicant, beginning with new registration plates manufactured after the bill became law.

Under the bill, each plate would cost $4, and the reflective material would have to provide an effective and dependable performance in the promotion of highway safety and vehicle identification.

New law limits prisoner labor

Cities, villages and townships often hire jail inmates at minimum wage to repair roads and work on other public-work projects. Last year, reports surfaced of some county officials in the state improperly using inmate labor in their own for-profit personal businesses.

A new state law imposes new fines and penalties on anyone who sells, hires, leases, loans or contracts for the labor of a prisoner for personal financial gain.

Ban on Lakes diversion eyed

State lawmakers have voted to extend for four years a ban on the diversion of Great Lakes water to other states.

The extended ban will allow experts to continue an ongoing study of the effects of Great Lakes water diversion and make recommendations to the state. The ban also prevents Great Lakes water from being diverted to alleviate specific climate conditions in other areas of the country.

Hospital limits are now reformed

Under the Michigan "certificate of need" guidelines, hospitals must receive state approval for any significant capital outlay for expansion, which cannot duplicate already available services.

State lawmakers recently approved bills that will replace the restrictive 10-year-old $150,000 CON limit with a more flexible system of thresholds for different kinds of hospital improvements.

Court issues new guidelines

Under Michigan law, judges have considerable latitude when making sentencing decisions about prison time, suspended sentences and alternative incarcerations. If judges improperly consider the race, gender or economic background of the convicted person, however, sentences can vary greatly for identical crimes committed under similar circumstances.

To eliminate the inequities, state judges now refer to new guidelines issued by the state Supreme Court that recommend appropriate sentences for offenses such as assault, theft, criminal sexual conduct, drug-related crimes, homicide, property destruction and weapons offenses.

Crime legislation to save in the long run

By JIM RINK
ANP Staff Writer

A formidable series of state bills known as the Perry Bullard crime package may cost taxpayers in the beginning, but may save them money in the long run.

In 1988, a long-awaited package of bills under the primary-sponsorship of Rep. Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, was signed into Michigan law addressing anti-drug, crime and juvenile justice legislation. Members of the Michigan Tax Information Council say the legislation will cost taxpayers an additional $265 million through 1991.

Pete Wilson, director of the juvenile court youth home for Wayne County, said the new legislation may actually save money and speed up the state judicial system.

Wilson cited one bill in the package which will give the county prosecutor an option to take certain juvenile court cases immediately to the adult court, bypassing the juvenile court level.

The new "waiver law" applies to juvenile suspects charged with major crimes such as murder, rape, certain drug-related crimes, various types of aggravated assault and armed robbery.

"The old way, the juvenile court could take four to six months to waive a kid to the adult system," Wilson said. "It takes 90 to 120 days to process in the adult system. Under the new waiver law, kids will be processed in four months – I think it will result in speedier justice."

Although Wilson believes prosecutors will choose to bypass the juvenile court only for the most serious cases, the new law will help to expedite the legal process.

"Some cases take so long, the kids can't recognize how they can be held accountable for their behavior," Wilson said.

Another law, enacted as part of the Bullard package, will allow juvenile offenders to remain state supervised until they reach the age of 21.

Previously, juvenile offenders were released from the custody of the state at the age of 19.

Although some state officials recognize that this may mean longer prison stays for some juveniles, they say it's worth it.

"The people in this community are very concerned about youth crime," Wilson said. "This law provides the mechanism for another two years of supervision."

"We were aware there were cost implications," said Louise Alderson, legislative director for Sen. Rudy Nichols, R-Waterford, a member of the ad hoc committee studying the crime bill package. "We invited the Department of Management and Budget to sit in on the meetings. They came in at the very end. We delayed a portion of the package to give them a longer period for implementation."

Alderson said the impact of the Bullard package on rising prison costs was a "drop in the bucket" compared to the issue of inadequacies within the judicial system and sentencing guidelines.

The changes mandated by the 80-bill package will increase correctional system costs by an estimated $265 million through 1991, according to Mary Kay Scullion, senior research analyst for the Michigan House Democratic staff, with $125 million earmarked for juvenile offenders only.

Bill eyes low-income housing

By JIM RINK
ANP Staff Writer

A new package of bills in the Michigan House of Representatives promises more affordable housing for low-income residents.

The core of the bill package is the proposed Michigan Housing Policy Commission, which would evaluate the availability of affordable housing for low-income individuals and families, persons with handicaps and other special need groups.

"What we're talking about would require the establishment of a board within the department of commerce," said a spokesperson for Charles Harrison, Jr., D-Pontiac, sponsor of one bill. "This board would administer programs through a needs assessment. They would be responsible for administration of grant monies and services."

Following the evaluation, specific government action would be recommended to increase housing availability for these groups.

Proponents of the eight bills, HB 5886 through HB 6898, say the legislation will promote cooperative efforts to preserve housing opportunities that currently exist and to open the housing market to people who are currently excluded.

"On the surface, just like with the Senate bills, we're encouraged," said Dennis Sykes, director of special projects for the Michigan Department of Social Services. "Even if they are going at it from different directions, they're in the field. The concepts are real encouraging."

Sykes said the DSS is keeping an eye on the bills from the standpoint of its clients. He said there is a "real need" for housing for approximately 1 million people in Michigan.

The Department of Social Services currently pays the shelter allowance for approximately 260,000 families, each family averaging 3.5 people.

Specifically, the eight bills under consideration would address the following areas:

- Regulation and registration of landfills.
- Greater percentage of block grants directed toward the Michigan State Housing Development Authority.

High-speed railway: Panel studies feasibility of project

By TERRY JACOBY
ANP Staff Writer

For those who want to get to Chicago in a hurry and don't find the skies or airports so friendly, a new high-speed rail system could be the answer.

A new state law established an interstate commission to assist in the development of a high-speed rail link between Detroit and Chicago.

The legislation calls for a three-state commission with representatives from Michigan, Indiana and Illinois. The 15-member group will conduct a study and bid specifications for the link.

"This is a project that would be privately funded," said State Representative James Kosteva, D-Canton. "Private industry is interested in a high-speed link between Detroit and Chicago, and our goal is to oversee the project and make recommendations and improvements."

Kosteva, chairman of the high-speed link committee, said informal studies have been conducted on the possibility of a Detroit-Chicago link.

> Kosteva, chairman of the high-speed link committee, said informal studies have been conducted on the possibility of a Detroit-Chicago link.

"Based on a study we have done, the speed of the train would be approximately 125 mph," he said. "Many locations would use existing track which would have to be upgraded to make high-speed travel safe."

Considering the low fares being offered by airline companies, is there a need for a high-speed link between Detroit and Chicago?

"That's a good question," Kosteva said. "But private industry believes they can compete with the airlines in both price and time.

"It's important to remember that this will also service people in places such as Kalamazoo, Jackson, South Bend and Gary. So it would not be competing directly with the airlines."

Kosteva is interested in the project because the train would travel through the district he represents.

"Any rail line would have to go through this district whether it used the Amtrack line that goes through Wayne or built another line," he said.

The only high-speed link that exists in this country is between Baltimore and Washington D.C. However, that train does not exceed 100 mph.

The high-speed rail links are common in both Europe and Japan with trains exceeding 200 mph.

Michigan representatives are still waiting for both Indiana and Illinois lawmakers to approve legislation.

Art grants awarded to area groups

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

Detroit-based groups, which received the lion's share of art grants awarded in 1987, seem to have garnered a substantial percentage of the state awards, as well as a major portion of the county awards.

Two western Wayne County groups were among the 408 recipients who received more than $11 million in grants from the Michigan Council for the Arts.

A $14,750 grant was awarded to the Wayne County Intermediate School District for a pilot program of Chinese folk art which will be conducted for approximately 120 students in the Plymouth-Canton, Taylor and Detroit school districts. The William D. Ford Vocational Education Center received a $15,000 grant to fund the second year of its film/video program.

The WCISD grant will bring three native Chinese teachers into the classrooms in a pilot program to instruct pupils in various types of folk art, such as paper folding, according to Wayne Ruchgy of the WCISD. Richgy said he sessions will teach the pupils to work in various art media and also will use art as a tool for teaching science, math and social studies.

When questioned about the lack of grants awarded to western Wayne County communities, Ruchgy speculated that, because of financial woes that had caused cutbacks in many school districts, some art programs have been reduced and, consequently, grants for the arts may not have been actively pursued.

Groups in nearby communities which received grants were Carlos Diaz of Livonia, $6,000; Plymouth Community Arts Council, $6,800; Plymouth Symphony Society, $10,000; Young Adults Health Center in Ypsilanti, $15,000, and Jose Levva Garza, Ypsilanti, $5,000.

Detroit-based activities received more than $4.7 million, or about 41 percent of the total grant money. The two western Wayne County grants, totaled $29,750, or .0026 percent of the grant money. No group in Inkster, Romulus, Canton Township, Belleville, Sumpter Township or Van Buren Township received any funding from the state arts council.

Among the 89 grants awarded to Detroit-based groups and organizations were:

- Detroit Symphony Orchestra, $2,554,800;
- Detroit Council of the Arts, $121,638, $9,000 and $60,000;
- Michigan Opera Theatre, $453,349;
- Music Hall Center, $93,857;
- CCS College of Arts and Design, $124,200, and
- CCS Institute for Music and Dance, $151,340.

Grants from $10,000 and more were awarded to the American African Council, exhibition development: American Black Artists, Inc., organization support; Artspectrum, concert/performance/reading; Ballantine Belles, Inc., organization support; The Brazeal Dennard Chorale, organization support; Casa De Unidad, Mexican art; Center for Creative Comm., small arts organization support; Concept East II, black cinema; Confined Audiences, concert/performance/reading; Creative Jazz Collective, organization support; Cuban Festival Dancers, concert series; Detroit Center for the Performing Arts, instruction/class/lecture; Detroit Focus, visual arts; Detroit Jazz Center, music; Detroit Jazz Orchestra, music; Detroit Metropolitan Orches-

Ballot issues

Environmental aid targeted in Proposals C and D

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

State and county officials have labeled state environmental proposals C and D as two of the most comprehensive and crucial bond issues in the history of the state of Michigan.

Although no visible opposition has surfaced against the proposals, "voter ignorance" could sound the knell for the bonds, according to local officials.

Proposals C and D will appear on the Nov. 8 general-election ballot, asking voters to approve the sale of $800 million in bonds. The money generated will be used to clean up environmental contamination, address solid waste disposal problems, restore the state park system, assist in local recreation projects and establish a Great Lakes protection fund.

"Obviously, these two bond issues are crucial to the quality of life for the residents of the state of Michigan," said Milton Mack (D-Wayne), a Wayne County commissioner, whose district includes Belleville, Romulus, Huron, Sumpter, Wayne, Van Buren and Canton townships.

Housed within Mack's district are at least five landfills.

"We are running out of landfill space," Mack has repeatedly warned. "Only voter ignorance is our enemy on Nov. 8. If they, the voters, understand the issue, these two bond issues will be approved overwhelmingly."

David F. Hales, director of the state Department of Natural Resources, concurred.

"The quality of life bond issue provides Michigan voters with a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to correct past environmental mistakes. In addition, it allows us to lay a firm foundation for a safe and secure environmental future."

If approved, $660 million of the $800 million will be used for environmental programs, including between $425 and $450 million targeted to clean up 1,778 toxic waste sites.

State and local parks would be the recipients of the $140 million which would be divided evenly to upgrade them.

To see that the bond issue is approved, members of the Public Interest Research Group in Michigan have launched a campaign drive. PIRGIM representatives will be traveling to the worst toxic sites until election day to stress the importance of the passage of the bond issues.

Rouge Rescue members also are campaigning for the cause. The $800 million would be a catalyst to help boost the Rouge cleanup.

Before leaving office in June, former DNR Director Gordon Guyer said the bonds are the keys to the future of the state of Michigan.

"The bonds will get us involved in addressing the worst sites and developing an aggressive solid-waste program in prevention, where we can spend the money now and harvest the benefits later, rather than pay a much higher price later to rectify the situation," Guyer said.

Nevertheless, the former state official was aware of the uphill battle in securing voter approval.

"We're going to have to work hard to sell it (the bond issue)," Guyer said.

Taxes are issue in abortion vote

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

> Approval of Proposal A would mean an end to tax-funded abortions. However, it would not make abortions illegal.

Proposal A on the November ballot is being promoted not as an abortion issue but as a tax issue by supporters. Opponents of the issue, on the other hand, are keeping quiet on the matter.

Approval of Proposal A would mean an end to tax-funded abortions. However, it would not make abortions illegal.

Members of the Committee to End Tax-Funded Abortions emphasize the issue as a question of taxes – not the legality of abortions.

Television advertisements show people who are pro-life and people who are pro-choice sitting at the same table discussing the ballot proposal. Even the pro-choice people in the commercial say that they will vote "yes" because they don't think taxpayers should foot the bill for abortions.

Local Democrats have said, if the proposal passes, poor people will once again have to return to the days of back-alley abortions.

While opponents are relying on a "no" vote without much coaxing of the voting public, those who favor the proposal have spent a great deal of money for their cause.

"Our campaign has focused on the issue as a tax matter, and we are using every possible media to get the word out," said Mashawn Blaylock, local representative for the Committee to End Tax-Funded Abortions.

A full television, radio and print advertising campaign is under way, as well as a Lifesaver candy promotion.

"We don't know what the other side's strategy is," Blaylock said. "But we will continue to expose the voting public to this issue."

Although there is no organized group fighting the ballot proposal, local Democrats have said they will continue to count on a strong pro-choice electorate to defeat the proposal.

Disaster drill tests preparedness

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

It may have looked like a real-life disaster, but, actually, it was only a drill.

About 300 people were involved in a mock bus-train-truck accident to test the emergency preparedness of area communities.

The drill took place Tuesday morning in Wayne. Students from Franklin Junior High School, in Wayne, were made to appear as accident victims, using makeup, and were taken to area hospitals for treatment.

A hazardous chemical spill was also part of the mock accident.

Officials organizing the event said such an accident is unlikely, but it helped to test all aspects of safety and emergency treatment.

Two firefighters were selected from each area fire department to participate. Police officers were also selected to participate.

The safety officials knew they would be taking part in the drill, but they were not told the specifics of the mock disaster before the event.

Cities involved in the drill included Westland, Wayne, Romulus, Inkster, Garden City, Dearborn and Redford.

Hospitals treating "victims" of the accident included Annapolis, Botsford, Garden City Osteopathic, Henry Ford Fairlane, Metro Regional Psychiatric, Oakwood, Redford Community, St. Mary's, Westland Medical Center and Health Emergency Medical Services.

Cider season

Area mills are now open with tasty apple treats

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

High temperatures during the mid-summer had a two-fold effect on fall crops – apples will be sweeter, but pumpkins will be scarce.

The sweeter apple crop is good news to the thousands of area residents who make an annual autumn pilgrimage to one or more of the hundreds of cider mills and apple farms in Michigan.

Among the frequent stops for western Wayne County residents are Davies Orchard and Cider Mill, 20026 Willow Road, New Boston; Wiard's Orchards, 5565 Merrit Road, Ypsilanti, and Apple Charlie's South Huron Orchards, 38035 South Huron River Drive, New Boston.

State orchards are expected to yield 700 million pounds of apples this year – McIntosh, Cortland, Jonathan, Empire, Delicious, Ida-Red, Steel Red and Northern Spy. The price per gallon of cider ranges from $1.40 to $4, with an average of $2.52 per gallon, according to a survey by AAA Michigan. In addition, the survey found the price of doughnuts – a traditional accompaniment to fresh apple cider – at $1.90 to $3.50 per dozen.

Visitors should call the cider mill or apple farm they plan to tour for hours and schedules of activities.

Area residents who are seeking a pumpkin for pies or a Halloween display will find that "pumpkins are like gold this year," according to Linda LeBlanc of The Pumpkin Factory, 16421 Elwell, Belleville.

She predicted that prices for the scarce crop will be "between 12 and 15 cents per pound, and, perhaps, as high as 20 cents."

"The hot weather burned the flowers off the vines this summer, and has created a big shortage," LeBlanc said.

"We're fortunate that some of the fields we planted did well," LeBlanc said, "but we should have had twice as many pumpkins as we have.

"Although the crop is drastically down, we have plenty for our own use," she said. "And we are planning to have our usual Halloween display plus some new items."

The LeBlancs annually stage a pre-Halloween display at The Pumpkin Factory which draws thousands of visitors. In addition to pumpkins, cider and home-baked pumpkin pies, the Elwell Road store offers Halloween costumes, masks, makeup and accessories. Rides also are available on three horse-drawn wagons.

Hours for the store and other attractions are available by calling 697-9829.

Workers remember bosses

By TERRY JACOBY
ANP Staff Writer

This week is very important for those who like to leave early or take an extra five minutes at lunch. Thinking about asking for a raise? Then you may wish to observe an important holiday in your career.

Sunday is Bosses' Day. Sure it's not Christmas. It's much more important.

Because if you forget your boss on this special day, you may not see Christmas.

Jeanette Peiffer has been the secretary for the director of public safety in Wayne for more than 12 years. She knows all about job security.

"Last year for Bosses' Day we rented a limousine for the director and took him to lunch in it," she said. "We all really enjoyed it."

Peiffer realizes that "brownie points" are given for creativity.

"Bosses' Day is very popular for us," said Mary Luke, manager of the Card and Gift Shop in Belleville.

"We sell mugs, candy and a lot of cards. People come in the next day and ask if we have any bosses' cards left and we usually don't."

Those people will be stuck working late on Friday, no doubt.

"We have 30 or 40 different types of cards and they go over very well. I think it's a popular day," Luke said.

Ron Vesche of Fruit and Basket Delivery in Belleville agrees.

"I don't think it's as big as Valentine's Day, but it's something people shouldn't forget," he said.

"We have people who buy pen and pencil sets, letter openers and desk items," said Donna Friment of Boutique Plus in Wayne. "But I think most people get something a little less expensive like flowers or candy."

But remember if you spend a little more, that ink pen probably won't run dry until after your paycheck is signed.

Opinion

Hearts and garbage must weigh heavily

It is rare that we couple hearts and education with solid waste and the environment. But, as a voter, you need to do just that next month, and you need to consider both important projects that deserve your support.

We speak, of course, of the ballot proposals which will appear on the Tuesday, Nov. 8 general election ballot. We speak of three proposals in particular, three proposals which will stand out among many others as clearly demanding your support.

The first proposal is a request by the Wayne County Intermediate School District to increase a tax levy for special education programs by 1 mill. Wayne County voters, in 1974, agreed to support a stepped-up program for the handicapped. Now, we feel, it is only logical that these same voters come to the rescue of what is now a financially plagued program.

Currently, county residents are levied 1 mill to support special education programs in the area. Those monies have been used since 1974 to provide tailored educational programming to more than 35,000 identified handicapped students in Wayne County.

No cost increases for the program were passed on to the taxpayers since the 1974 vote, although, beginning in the 1982-83 school year, revenue from taxes fell 2 percent short of budget needs.

During each subsequent year, this budget deficit has increased and resulted in "chargebacks" to all Wayne County school districts sending students to the program. In the 1987-88 school year, a more than $9 million budget deficit was projected – a deficit too large to charge back to participating school districts.

Now, it is time for the same voters who laid the cornerstone of the exemplary special education programming in Wayne County to provide the funding for continuation of the program. Wayne County voters, apparently, failed to understand the purpose of this millage request when they rejected it during the Aug. 2 primary election.

The Nov. 8 election must change that image and show that Wayne County voters are willing to support the projects they begin. A "yes" vote on the special education millage will do just that.

IN TWO OTHER ballot issues, the support of area voters is also necessary to ensure a clean environment and a solution to the solid-waste woes we all face. We speak, of course, of proposals C and D, which, if approved, would allow state officials to issue $800 million in bonds for environmental cleanup and recreation-system improvements.

The state-issued bonds would be used to address the worst environmentally contaminated sites and help fund the establishment of an aggressive solid-waste program. Local voters will notice no special millage levy on their tax bill if the bonds are sold, since the loan will be repaid by the state treasury.

Thus, a "yes" vote on Proposals C and D is a vote to clean up our act in Michigan as far as the environment and our parks are concerned. Such a vote is only a matter of good common sense for us all.

Schools need support

While we are standing on our ballot-proposal soapbox, we also urge Romulus voters to support two school-related proposals that will determine the fate of a quality school system.

School officials have placed on the Nov. 8 ballot – for a fourth time – two millage proposals that, if approved, would eliminate a $1.4 million operating budget deficit. And, although the issues are labeled as tax increases on the ballot, they actually would cost the taxpayer no more and no less because school officials have promised to reduce the district debt-retirement millage in exact proportion to the general-operating millage increase.

The net result is no tax increase for residents but financial salvation for several school programs.

If the two proposals are not approved, however, school officials have vowed to slash several student programs, including all athletics, a reduction of the school day from six to five hours and elimination of new textbooks, field trips and arts and music programs for elementary students.

Romulus schools voters need to think in the long run. They need to support both millage proposals on the Nov. 8 ballot. The future of quality education in the Romulus Community Schools is at stake, as is the future of each student enrolled in the district.

Voter support is imperative.

Support of seniors deserves praise

I think Canton Township deserves a big round of applause for its support of senior citizens programs.

At the Canton Recreation Center, 44237 Michigan Ave., it provides housing for the Senior Citizens Nutrition Program. This program provides a hot, nutritious meal to seniors for a donation of $1.

Free doughnuts are furnished by The Doughnut Scene, in Canton, three times per week.

Canton is one of the few municipalities that provide for the delivery of meals to the homebound. There is no waiting list for homebound meal service in Canton, as there is in most areas that depend on volunteers to deliver meals.

The Canton Recreation Center also has two pool tables and a large area for card games, lessons and handicrafts. Two senior clubs and the kitchen band meet here.

A dedicated and competent staff supervise and plan many activities, such as a softball team. A telecare girl is stationed here to call the shut-ins every day to let them know that someone cares.

The township furnishes a large, comfortable bus for transportation to various activities, such as Tigers ball games.

These are just some of the things that show that Canton Township really cares about senior citizens. Anyone interested in any of these activities can call 397-1000,. ext. 278.

Schools coverage deserves praise

The article you wrote for our Sept. 27 senior parent night was excellent (The Canton Eagle, Sept. 21).

Not being a Canton resident, I had not previously read The Canton Eagle. I was very impressed with your education/school page.

Thank you for your fine article. The guidance staff at the Park is appreciative of your support.

6 seconds left, Casey's field goal lifts Inkster

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

A dramatic 27-yard field goal with six seconds remaining on the clock by Earl Casey lifted previously winless Inkster over Ecorse, 11-8, Friday afternoon.

"The Lord blessed us," said Inkster Coach Alonzo Glaze. "I think we all said a little prayer just before Casey booted that one."

The Inkster victory snapped a five-game losing streak and it was the first win for the Vikings in the Suburban Athletic Conference this year. It also came before an Ecorse homecoming crowd.

The Vikings will attempt to make it two straight Friday afternoon at Oak Park. They have the dubious honor of taking on the Parkers before an Oak Park homecoming crowd.

"They're tough," Glaze stressed. "It's not going to be easy. But I feel that this victory will help us in the stretch. We needed a victory to boost our morale. I hope we can keep this momentum going."

The fired-up Ecorse team, also winless in its first five games, drew first blood. The Red Raiders capitalized on a first quarter Viking miscue and turned it into a touchdown. Inkster trailed 8-0 until midway in the third quarter when Will Jones blocked an Ecorse punt and Jarmaine Jackson recovered on the Red Raiders' 30-yard line.

It took Casey seven plays to the one where he leaped over the line of scrimmage and into the end zone for the TD.

Inkster tied the game thanks to Tyrone Orr's heroics. Orr, a split end, made a sensational catch of a deflected pass by "coming out of nowhere, and making a diving catch" for the two-point conversion, according to the Inkster coach.

With the score tied at 8-8, Inkster got another break when Orr again came up with an interception inside the Ecorse 40. As time began to run out, Casey managed to get inside the Red Raiders' 30 where Glaze decided that the senior quarterback was in range of a field goal.

"Casey is an excellent all-around athlete and I have a lot of confidence in him," Glaze said. "But you never know what can happen in situations like this, do you?"

Casey's boot cleared the uprights, breaking the deadlock, and sealing the victory for the Vikings. Ecorse had no time left to retalitate.

Casey, who rushed for 59 yards in 13 attempts, and Orr, who had an outstanding day, earned Glaze's praise. The Viking coach said that defensive tackle Carlos Lucas and Jones, a linebacker, also stood out.

"But we're not going to be able to rest - I expect Oak Park to be tough and they are going to go all out to win before their homecoming fans," Glaze added. "We have to be ready for them or suffer the consequences."

Bulldogs zero in on title

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Warning that his team can't afford a letdown after beating a tough Highland Park club last Friday, Robichaud Coach Bob Yauck looks upon the Bulldogs' pending battle with Willow Run with "extreme caution".

Yauck hasn't forgotten last year's 22-18 upset at the hands of the Flyers who rallied from a 12-0 deficit to edge the previously undefeated Bulldogs a year ago. The loss forced Robichaud to hand over a share of the Suburban Athletic Conference title to River Rouge.

After beating Rouge earlier in the week and getting past Highland Park, 13-8, last week, Robichaud has cleared two serious title obstacles, setting the stage for Friday afternoon's rematch with Willow Run at the Dearborn Heights-based high school.

"I haven't forgotten what happened to us last year at this time," said Yauck who pointed out that Willow Run has an extremely fast and talented team. "I am not looking for history to repeat. If we go into this with the feeling that we have already won this thing, they'll knock us for a loop.

"We just can't afford a letdown. This is a title game. And remember we still have to play Inkster after Willow Run, so this thing isn't wrapped up, believe me."

Robichaud fullback Carl Brown plows his way into enemy territory. If Brown and the Bulldogs turn back nemesis, Willow Run, on Friday, they'll clinch a share of the Suburban Athletic Conference title. ANP photo by Ann Grimes/staff photographer

Robichaud stayed on top of the Suburban Athletic Conference standings with the crucial victory over Highland Park. The Bulldogs made it four straight thanks to a sterling defensive performance and sophomore tailback Tyrone Wheatley's efforts.

Although he was sidelined with a thigh injury early in the second period and didn't return to action until the fourth quarter, Wheatley managed to chalk up 141 yards in 16 rushes and scored one TD.

Wheatley's touchdown was a spectacular 85-yard run pulled off on the second play of the game. He also kicked the extra point, giv-

Kicking game continues to haunt Tigers

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

The kicking game continues to haunt Belleville High.

A mishandled Wayne Memorial punt enabled the visiting Wayne Zebras to pounce on a narrow 22-14 Wolverine 'A' Conference victory over Coach Dave McCarney and his Tigers Friday night.

The loss dipped Belleville's conference record to 1-3 on the season. They're 2-4 overall on the year.

"It was a great game," said McCarney afterwards. "Yes, I am disappointed that we lost it - but we played an intense and good game. Three plays made the difference."

One of those three plays was a mishandled Wayne punt in the fourth quarter. With 10:20 remaining in the game and the game tied at 14-all, Belleville's defense managed to stop Wayne. Wayne gave up the ball via a punt that was muffed by the Tiger receiver and recovered by the visitors on the Tiger 20.

The Zebras managed to capitalize on that Belleville turnover for the winning touchdown.

The two conference rivals played to a scoreless first half, then Belleville got the first break when the visitors fumbled on their first possession of the third quarter. Brad Dawson recovered for the Tigers at the Wayne 36.

Belleville quarterback Jeremy Ison, on the second play from scrimmage, handed off to senior running back Virgil Chandler who bolted for 33 yards and the game's first TD. Then, the Tigers' made it a 7-0 game with Chad McCarney's first of two point-afters.

Wayne marched 70 yards after the ensuing kickoff, and was faced with a fourth-and-12 situation when they scored their first six-pointer. But they missed their conversion attempt, giving Belleville a slim 7-6 lead.

The second crucial play - a blocked Tiger punt which was recovered by Wayne on the Tiger 32 was the second "big play" that led to Belleville's eventual demise.

Huron running out of time, league games, players

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

With injuries taking their toll, and time running out, New Boston Huron and Coach Tom Labeau have two more shots at winning a Huron Conference football game in 1988.

On Friday, the Chiefs will host the Islanders of Grosse Ile for homecoming. And, a week from Friday, they'll wrap up the conference phase of the season, also at home, to Monroe Jefferson.

"We're down to about 19 players," said Labeau after Monroe St. Mary's Saturday handed the Chiefs their fifth consecutive conference loss, 19-6. "And it's rough on these kids. We got to mend our ranks and do the best we can. It isn't going to be easy."

Monroe scored 13 first-half points and coasted to its second league victory in six starts as St. Mary's junior tailback Nick Marino had a field day against the ailing Huron defense.

Marino picked up 106 yards in 14 tries and scored on a pair of one-yard dives to engineer the victory.

Huron quarterback Paul Hill continued his sterling efforts to give the Chiefs respectability. Hill scored on a 28-yard jaunt with less than 2 minutes in the game to help Huron avert the shutout.

The senior QB also connected on four of nine passes and was the team's leading rusher.

> We got to mend our ranks, and some how get through the season. It isn't going to get any easier on us.
>
> — Tom Labeau
> Huron coach

Labeau used the injured Pete Hill, Paul's twin brother, sparsely in the game, and he hopes to have him available fulltime for the Grosse Ile encounter.

"Pete would add another dimension to our game," Labeau said. "Like his brother, he (Pete) is an excellent athlete. Unfortunately, a thigh injury has kept him sidelined."

In other games involving Huron Conference teams: Undefeated Riverview closed in on the title with its sixth (fifth in the conference) victory. The Pirates bombed Carleton Airport 33-15; Grosse Ile turned back Gibraltar Carlson 19-7; and Monroe Jefferson shut out Flat Rock, 33-0.

Romulus continues quest for elusive grid victory

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

If Romulus is going to snap out of its football doldrums, Friday night would be an excellent time.

Friday has been set aside for Romulus High's homecoming celebration.

With six consecutive losses behind them, Coach Norb Glover and his Eagles venture out of the tough South Central Conference Friday night to host nonconference rival, Milan, for homecoming.

"We don't know much about them," Glover said after his club fell to SCC foe, Ann Arbor Huron, Friday night 33-12. "But they are tough, and we have been anything but impressive this year."

Ann Arbor Huron leaped to a 12-0 lead in the first half before the Eagles got on the scoreboard and made a battle out of it in the second half.

Aro Trinity scored on a three-yard, off-tackle play that capped a 60-yard Romulus drive that closed the gap to 12-6 early in the third quarter. That TD drive was engineered by quarterback Bobby Holt who used Trinity effectively and found a path through the River Rats' lines thanks to tackle Paul Nowicki.

Nowicki got the job done most of the evening.

Huron widened the margin to 18-6 after the ensuing kickoff, but the Eagles refused to buckle and, afterward, Glover switched quarterbacks and inserted junior Chris Jones into the thick of the battle.

The Eagles got their second break midway in the third period when defensive tackle Guam Lee recovered a River Rat fumble at the 30. Jones engineered the Eagles' second TD drive with Trinity again breaking through - thanks to Nowicki - off tackle and going six yards for the six-pointer.

Trinity attempted both conversions and fell short.

Huron exploded for a pair of unanswered TDs to put the game on ice.

Trinity amassed 100-plus yards in 18 attempts and "was one tired player after the game", according to the Romulus coach.

"This game was much closer than the score indicates," Glover said. "With nine minutes to go, we were still in the thick of it (18-12) when we crumbled.

Glover praised Michael Maull, whose interception set up one TD, and Ed Miller, who was switched from defensive tackle to center, for their performances. Miller was forced into the center slot after starter, Jamie Sypula, was sidelined with a broken ankle.

With the South Central Conference season behind them, Romulus will turn to nonconference rivals the following three weeks in hopes of snapping out of a six-game losing streak. Milan, one of three out-of-conference rivals the Eagles will meet in the stretch, could be just what Romulus needs to snap out of its doldrums. The two will meet Friday before a Romulus homecoming crowd. Above, quarterback Robert Holt (white jersey) draws the attention of Adrian defenders in an SCC showdown earlier this season. Midcourt basket saves Inkster, 45-43

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Despite splitting with league rivals last week, Coach Dwight Hotchkiss and the Inkster Vikings figure they are still very much in the thick of the Suburban Athletic Conference title chase.

The Vikings, with a couple of their starters ailing, dropped a 79-59 decision Tuesday to SAC rival, River Rouge, then Thursday dramatically bounced back with a mid-court, at-the-buzzer basket by Ursula Harris to edge Highland Park, 45-43.

"We're still in this thing," Hotchkiss said after the exciting victory over the Parkers. "Although we're 2-2 in the league, anything can happen."

Harris's mid-court basket was "beautiful", according to the Viking coach. And it was only one of two baskets she had made all night.

"I don't think any of us expected to see that (basket)," Hotchkiss said. "She got the ball, and took one step over the half-court line and let it go. That ball kissed the rim and fell right in."

> She got the ball at mid-court. Took a dribble, then let the ball fly and it kissed the rim and fell in. It was an unbelievable basket.
>
> — Dwight Hotchkiss
> Inkster cage coach

Up to that point, it was anyone's ball game. The score was tied at six-all after the first period, then the Vikings, on the strength of Tequana Abney's 16 points and 15 rebounds, edged ahead 28-21 at the half. But the Parkers outscored their SAC rivals 12-5 in the third period, setting the stage for a nail-biting finale.

Inkster also got double scoring figures from Angie Thomas who tossed in 13 points.

Thomas's game-high 27 points were wasted by the Vikings as Rouge overpowered them by 20 (79-59) earlier in the week. The Panthers jumped out to a 24-10 first period lead and the outcome of the game was never in doubt after that.

Thomas's 27 was the best output by a Viking cager this season. She also had five rebounds and two assists.

The Vikings return to the Recreation Complex (on Middlebelt) Thursday to take on Ecorse for their next SAC game. They were scheduled to play Willow Run last night. The Vikings are playing their home games at the recreation complex because of ongoing repairs to the gym at Inkster High.

In the meantime, Ann Arbor Pioneer handed Romulus their third straight South Central Conference setback, 41-29, as the Eagles failed to garner any kind of scoring power.

Romulus's 6-3 center, Lori Berlinn, was held to nine points.

Berlinn led a second-half Romulus rally that helped erase a 21-point Eagle deficit against Edsel Ford earlier in the week, however, Romulus wound up on the short end of a 59-53 nonleague decision.

Go for it

Belleville's All-Area guard Kathy Murphy (44) leaps high for this jump shot against Wolverine 'A' Conference rival, Wayne Memorial. The Tigers wasted a superb all-around performance from the sharpshooting cager, losing a 49-26 decision to the Zebras. The loss dipped Coach Mike Garland's club's record to 6-4 overall and 2-3 in the league while Wayne remains in the title chase with a 4-1 conference and 8-1 overall mark. Christy Garrett tossed in 13 points for the losers; Wayne got 14 from Carlatta Dancy and 11 from Maya Lewis. ANP photo by Paula Parkinson

Belleville wins Franklin relays

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Belleville continued to press the issue that it has one of the better girls' cross country teams in the area by capturing the Livonia Franklin Relays over the weekend.

Coach Peggy Curtis' Tigers who are undefeated in Wolverine 'A' Conference competition, received outstanding performances from Valentine Stumpf, Laura Alberta, Dawn Durham, Becky Brown and Mitzi Herkimer to win the 7-mile relays.

In the meantime, the Tiger runners made it 2-0 in the league with a convincing 21-40 victory over Dearborn Fordson as Stumpf finished first with a 20:35 performance over the three-mile course. Teammate Alberts crossed the finish line in third (22:27) while Durham (22:57), Brown (23:14) and Herkimer (23:30) rounded out the scoring with fourth, sixth, and seventh-place finishes, respectively.

Belleville is now 4-1 overall on the season.

However, the Belleville boys' team didn't fare well at the relays. They finished behind Franklin, Ann Arbor Huron, and Westland John Glenn.

In a triangular conference meet, Fordson surfaced on top with a 19-40 victory over Coach Dave Medley's Tigers, while the Tigers blew out Southgate Anderson, 15-50.

Trenton ends Tiger swim streak

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Defending champ Trenton unveiled its power Thursday and swept seven of 11 first places en route to a 105-67 victory over Belleville swimmers on Thursday.

It was Belleville's first Wolverine 'A' Conference setback of the conference year. The loss came in the wake of a nonleague Tiger loss to Dearborn Edsel Ford, 94-78, which slashed a four-meet Belleville win streak.

"We walked into the week with the realization that we had two extremely tough opponents," said Belleville Coach Greg Cooper. "We did everything we could to be respectable."

> "We walked into the week with the realization we had two extremely tough assignments...We did everything we could to be respectable.
> — Greg Cooper, Belleville swim coach

Belleville received a double-winning performance out of Jeanie Montie who picked up first places in the 50 and the 100-yard freestyle events against the defending champs. Montie was clocked in the winning time of 27:13 in the 50, then returned to the pool and swam a 59.40 to win the 100.

Belleville's Melanie Merritt also posted a win in the 200-yard freestyle as she turned in a 2:10.83. She later teamed up with Shelene Reed, Rachel and Jeanie Snure to win the 400-yard freestyle relay.

The Belleville relay team covered the distance in 4:21.17.

Against the T-Birds of Edsel Ford, Belleville managed but only three first places. Their 200-yard medley team of Chris Adkins, Jeanie Snure, Kristin Curtis and Montie combined for a 2:09.15, good enough for first place.

Montie returned to the pool for the 50-yard freestyle and hit the wall first. Her winning time was 26.92.

Snure accounted for the only other first place, a victory in the 100-yard breaststroke (1:19.02).

"If we learned anything this week, it was that we have a lot of distance to cover before we can realistically challenge the champs," Cooper noted. "But our girls are hard workers and they know what they have to do to win."

ing the Bulldogs an early 7-0 lead.

Robichaud put what proved to be the winning touchdown on the scoreboard in the second quarter as quarterback Eric Thomas teamed up with senior tight end Michael Aaron on a 60-yard touchdown pass-run play.

Trailing 13-0 at the half, Highland Park didn't roll over and die for the Vikings. The Parkers kept the outcome of the game in doubt until the closing minutes. Midway in the fourth quarter, the Parkers struck for a TD when Legari Jones fired a direct hit to junior receiver Anthony Young that covered 30 yards. Aristotle Wilson forced his way around end for the two-point conversion to bring the Parkers within range.

With four minutes remaining, Highland Park, aided by a 15-yard Robichaud penalty, penetrated inside the Bulldogs' 20-yard line and was poised for the upset when Robichaud cornerback James Gee sneaked in and decked the quarterback for a huge loss.

"That ended a serious threat to say the least," Yauck noted, "and we took over and ran out the clock."

Statistically, it was also close. The Bulldogs had 10 to HP's nine first downs; Robichaud had 175 yards rushing and 112 passing as compared to Highland Parks 109 and 67, respectively.

Thomas had a better afternoon passing as he hit on four of eight passes, two of those receptions going to Aaron for a total of 79 yards.

Defensively, middle-linebacker Gary Johnson, tackles Lennell Brooks and Tim Parker had an outstanding day.

"It's our homecoming this Friday," Yauck pointed out. "And we're hoping that our fans and parents will be on hand to watch what I believe is going to be an excellent game and program."

In other games involving SAC teams: Inkster ended its five-game losing streak at the expense of Ecorse, 11-8; River Rouge kept its title hopes alive with a 20-6 victory over Willow Run; and Country Day buried Oak Park, 33-14.

Inkster seeking cagers

Inkster parks and recreation officials are seeking basketball teams for the 1988-89 adult men's league.

An organizational meeting has been scheduled for 7 p.m. Dec. 7 at the Recreation Complex, located at 2025 Middlebelt, to discuss the league.

"If you would like to enter a team in this year's league or have any questions about the rules and regulations, we'd be glad to answer them," said Ruth E. Williams, athletic supervisor.

Those needing further information may get in touch with Williams at 728-7530.

Belleville posts net wins

After six consecutive setbacks, Belleville High's varsity tennis team found its way into the victory column at the expense of Wolverine 'A' Conference rivals Wyandotte and Lincoln Park.

Coach Susan McCarney's Tigers eked out a 4-3 victory over the Bears of Wyandotte and won a 5-2 decision from the Parkers.

Emerging with victories over Wyandotte were Belleville's No. 2 singles Brittany Hall; No. 3 singles Krista VanAllen; No. 4 singles Rene Cranham and No. 3 doubles - Rachel Hamel and Leslie Pageveski.

Against the Railsplitters of Lincoln Park, Belleville winners included: VanAllen (No. 2 singles); Cranham(No.4 singles); No. 1 doubles - Susan Karolyi and Angela Radisvich; No. 2 doubles - Linda Pasek and Kelli Robinson; and No. 3 doubles Hamel and Pageveski.

The Wolverine 'A' Conference championships were to be decided Tuesday night at Wyandotte Roosevelt High, weather permitting.

Tigers

Wayne cashed that miscue in for their second TD, giving them a 14-7 lead.

After John Perry gave the Tigers excellent field position with a kickoff return to the Tiger 40, quarterback Jeremy Ison moved his team to the Wayne 17 in six plays and on the seventh picked out Kevin Hunter for a short pass that was lateralled to Chandler who went in for the touchdown.

After Chad's extra-point tied the game at 14-all, Belleville managed to stop the Zebra offense until the fatal punt-fumble.

Chandler finished with 90 yards rushing in 14 attempts and Ison added another 111 yards thanks to a six-of-11 pass-completion ratio.

McCarney is pleased with Ison's progress, pointing out "that he (Ison) is making some good decisions out there."

Belleville received outstanding performances from Brian Hutchinson, Brian Gonczy and Maurice Brantley on defense.

The Tigers are on the road Friday night, clashing with Wyandotte. Wyandotte has designated the game as its "homecoming" and the Tigers will have to play over the spirited Bears.

The following week, Belleville comes home for the Tiger homecoming and they will host one of the Wolverine 'A' Conference powers, Lincoln Park.

In other action involving Wolverine 'A' Conference teams: Lincoln Park annihilated Southgate 34-6; Monroe destroyed Wyandotte 44-6 to clinch at least a share of the title; Trenton stunned Fordson, the defending champ, 20-0.

Television co-anchor Carmen Harlan will be the guest speaker at the 11:30 a.m. Oct. 26 luncheon meeting of the West Suburban Area Council of Chambers.

Harlan, a native Detroiter, joined the WDIV-TV staff in 1978. From then until her most recent assignment as a co-anchor, Harlan has hosted community service programs and documentaries.

The 15 member communities of the WSACC are Belleville, Canton Township, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Farmington-Farmington Hills, Garden city, Huron Township, Inkster, Livonia, Northville, Novi, Plymouth, Redford, Wayne and Westland.

The luncheon will be staged at the Hellenic Cultural Center, 36375 Joy Road, Westland, just east of Newburgh. Tickets, at $12 per person, are available at any chamber of commerce office prior to Oct. 19.

Small business issues addressed

For information on how small businesses can export goods, local business owners are invited to attend a special videocast sponsored by the U.S. Small Business Administration.

Local business people will gather Oct. 20 at the Holiday Inn, on Nine Mile and Woodward, to join in a nationwide videocast.

The videocast will originate from Washington, D.C., and will be seen at 60 sites across the country.

A panel discussion will also take place live at the Hazel Park site, according to Al Cook, a representative of the administration.

Cost for the event is $59. For more information, call 1-800-541-2410 or 1-800-336-4776.

Area hotel firm seeks employees

A mass-hiring date has been set in late November by officials of the Ritz-Carlton, Dearborn. The 308-guest-room hotel is expected to open in early January and offer 400 new jobs.

Located in the Fairlane Plaza, near the Fairlane shopping mall, the luxury hotel will feature an 18th- and 19th-century art collection valued at more than $1 million, wood and marble decor accents and deluxe guests room and suites, meeting facilities, fine-dining facilities, a fitness center and other business amenities, according to hotel officials.

The Ritz-Carlton, Dearborn, is a partnership between the Ford Motor Land Development Corp., of Dearborn, and The Ritz-Carlton Hotel Company, of Atlanta.

Employees sought, company officials said, are those capable of fulfilling the corporate motto of "ladies and gentlemen serving ladies and gentlemen." Interview appointments and more information about the hiring date are available by calling Sue McAlister, personnel director, at 584-2500.

Hotel officials kicked off their debut in the Detroit area Tuesday with a "thank you" breakfast for construction crews working on the yet unfinished building.

In the dough: Pizza-shop owner a success

By JIM RINK
ANP Staff Writer

In the middle of the newest Pizza USA in Romulus, Terry Nickels and his partner Mike Daronco play chess.

Nickels' approach to the food business is like his game – quick, decisive, forceful. He sweeps captured pieces off the board, slamming them down on the table with vigor.

Nickels and Daronco operate several food establishments in the area – the Wheat & Rye Lounge in Romulus, the Wheat & Rye in Allen Park, the Allen Park Bar, a Pizza USA in Romulus and a Pizza USA in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

"We've been in the business over at the airport three and one-half years," said Nickels, "in Allen Park the last 10 years. When that big Concorde came in we had the flight crew and stewardesses come in. He (the pilot) was telling me they have the second highest-paying job in Europe."

Pizza USA is located not far from the Romulus Wheat & Rye, where the Concorde crew dined, one-half mile east of Merriman on Ecorse Road.

This is Nickels' latest venture, and he chose a highly competitive commodity to sell. But sell it he will.

"Our idea is to start a chain," he said. "What makes our product special is, number one, we worked with the dough, it's a very light dough. Second, we give you your money's worth. There's plenty of cheese, our prices are the best around."

> "Within eight to nine months, Nickels and Daronco hope to open three more Pizza USA outlets in Taylor, Melvindale and Southgate. The next three stores will be 'prototype' stores with larger-than-life, mouthwatering photos of his product on the walls and soft earthtones throughout the store."

Nickels said he can fill a special "niche" that the pizza giants like Little Caesars and Domino's can't fill.

"They're dealing in mass advertising," Nickels said. "That takes all kinds of money. Our philosophy is to get into the neighborhoods, sponsor softball teams, buy advertising through the local newspapers.

"We believe there's a void in the market right now," continued Nickels. "Ever tasted a Domino's pizza? We know we can give the public a better pie."

"We're faster, cheaper and better quality," said Daronco. "We can do a better job than they can."

Within eight to nine months, Nickels and Daronco hope to open three more Pizza USA outlets in Taylor, Melvindale and Southgate. The next three stores, said Nickels, will be "prototype" stores with larger-than-life, mouth-watering photos of his product on the walls and soft earthtones throughout the store.

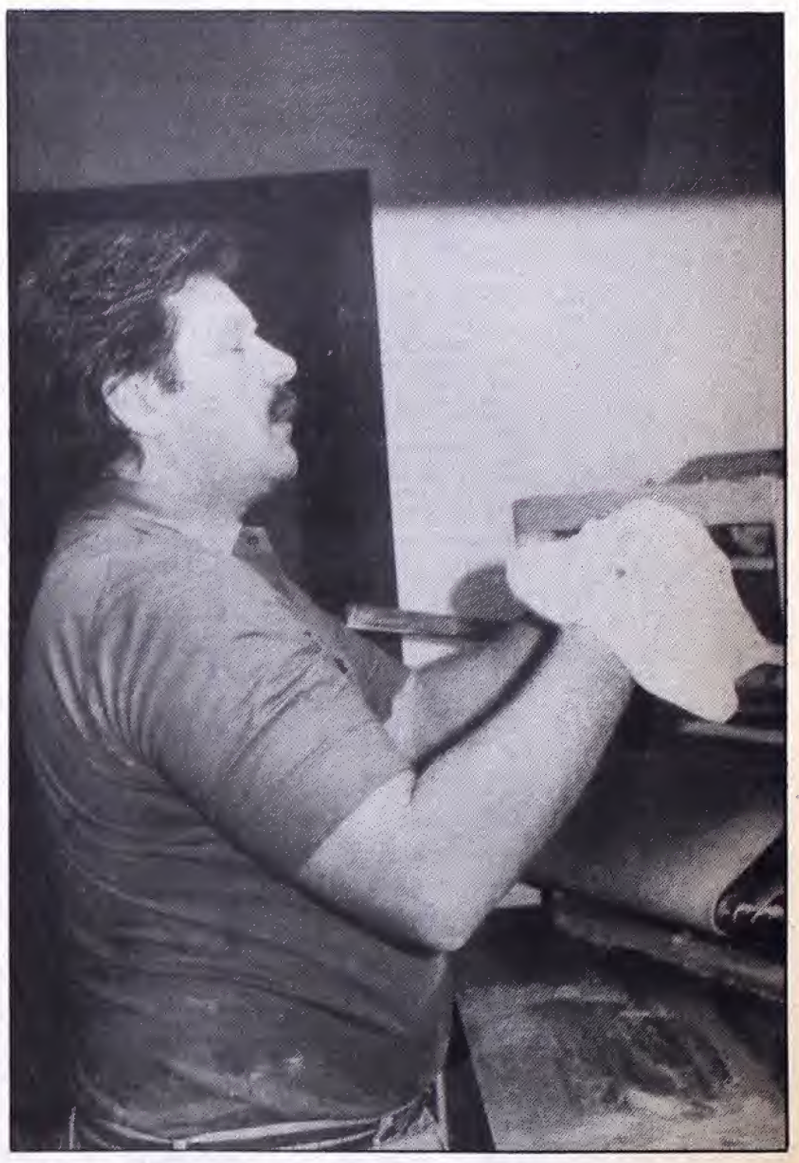
So how did this enterprising duo open a pizza store in Ft. Lauderdale?

"We've been in this business the last 10 to 12 years," explained Nickels. "Once in awhile, you need to get away. We went down to Ft. Lauderdale, opened up a place. It started out to be an excuse to go down there."

Business at the Florida Pizza USA is brisk, said Nickels. Down there, he said, it's hard to find a "good northern pizza."

Is Nickels really serious about giving people their money's worth?

At his Wheat & Rye locations, Nickels offers $1,000 to anyone who can eat three of his ham sandwiches in 45 minutes. "People know we give you your money's worth," he said. "If you leave any of our places hungry – shame on you."



Pizza USA co-owner Mike Daronco (above) is rolling in and with the dough to make a success of his most recent business venture.

Vocation training funds are discussed at forum

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

Approximately 60 educators and administrators gathered last week for a brainstorming forum. The topic was the Carl D. Perkins Education Act.

The William D. Ford Vocational Center was one of five sites selected throughout the country to host such a forum. The meeting was sponsored by American Association of School Administrators.

"The AASA wants to know what the issues are," said Bruce Hunter, director of the Association.

The Perkins Act expires in 1990, and legislators are beginning to gather information, before rewriting the act. Administrators were asked to provide input into the reauthorization of the legislation.

Enacted in 1984, the Perkins Act provides about $900 million annually to vocational education. The act targets six disadvantaged groups, including single parents, displaced homemakers, those on federal assistance, the unemployed and criminal offenders.

"Reauthorization of the Perkins Act is a necessity for the 1990s," said Mary Blackmon, a representative of the Wayne County Intermediate School District and a member of the Detroit Board of Education.

Edward Ferguson, principal at the William D. Ford center, said the day-long session was a success. Those in attendance discussed crucial issues, and those concerns will be forwarded on to Congressman William D. Ford (D-Taylor), who will be chairing the reauthorization committee, Ferguson said.

"We think our input will be beneficial to the federal legislators," Ferguson said. "We know Congressman Ford has our best interest at heart."

Issues discussed at the meetings included monies for special populations versus monies available for the general population, secondary versus post-secondary vocational education, state and local authority and links with programs in the private sector.

Local Keim realty firms optimistic about future

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

One area realty firm will now have the big guns of a nationwide firm behind it.

Earl Keim Realty recently purchased Red Carpet Real Estate, a national company, based in San Diego.

The Keim identity will remain, according to Ted Martin, owner/broker of Red Carpet Keim-Westland, Inc.

"The merger will provide us with additional tools in recruiting, marketing and training," Martin said.

He also promised slicker advertising and promotional materials now that the local company will have more dollars behind it.

The company operations and local personnel will remain the same, Martin said. Offices here will continue to look to the Keim Troy headquarters for guidance, rather than San Diego.

With the merger, which became effective Oct.1, Red Carpet Keim will have 500 offices in 26 states and Canada.

"This type of national coverage will mean that we can help you find a house anywhere in the country," Martin said.

Because of the links Red Carpet had with agents throughout the country, the new company can offer a homeowner 45,000 agents nationwide.

All "for sale" signs have been changed to reflect the new name. But the signs will continue to bear the "Keim Sold Mine" motto, Martin said.

REUNITED

▲ Old yearbooks, such as this one from the Belleville High School Class of 1952 yearbook, are a great way to strike up conversations during a reunion – and a great way to gain some laugh about the days gone by.

▲ Remember homecoming, prom? How about the first school dance or football game. They all are relived when reunion time rolls around. This photo of the Belleville High School Class of 1952 homecoming court provided lots of memories for those who attended the class reunion.

Class reunions – Difficult to plan, worth the trouble

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

We dread them and look forward to them at the same time. Class reunions happen only once every five years – or 10, 20 or 25.

But, when they do roll around, our lives go "topsy turvy."

It's bad enough just planning to attend a class reunion.

"What will I wear? How will I lose those 15 pounds? What will my old boyfriend look like?"

But class reunions are even more disruptive, believe it or not, to the lucky people who are "roped into" planning the event. Just ask Dorothy Siano.

Siano, of the Wayne Memorial High School Class of 1958, has helped plan three reunions for her classmates.

"Every time, I say I'm never going to do this again, but then I think somebody has to do it," Siano said.

Siano offers one important piece of advice to anyone interested in planning a class reunion.

"Start early and save everything," she said.

The "save everything" motto is important when it is time to track down all of the classmates.

Virginia Wagner, of the Belleville High School Class of 1952, said her telephone bill started to look like the national debt when she was planning a reunion. Wagner used a list of addresses from a previous class reunion to launch the effort.

She faced many brick walls, however, and began tracking people down through newspaper announcements and through friends and relatives.

"I must have spent a whole day dialing (information)," she said.

Sue Paddock, of the John Glenn High School Class of 1983, didn't have quite so far to look for her classmates. She obtained a list of graduates from school officials and was able to track down classmates easily.

Tracking down people is something at which Siano has become quite an expert.

When planning the 10th reunion of the Wayne Memorial class, Siano had no outside job. Thus, time devoted to the reunion was not a problem.

She was also very lucky to find a directory that was published while she was in high school. The directory listed everyone in the city, names, addresses, children's names and where he or she worked. It was put together as a Junior Achievement project by the class president.

After finding the directory, Siano began believing the motto "save everything."

Reunions can help turn back time of the psychological-human clock

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

Reunions provide a opportunity to "touch base with the past," according to Roger Dallwig, director of Her Place/His Place Counselling Center.

"It's a chance to keep in contact with people that you have neglected to keep in touch with over the years – for whatever reasons," Dallwig said. "It is a part of life that has been lost and the reunion gives people the opportunity to attempt to recover those lost friends and lost memories."

The fact that people tend to lose touch with their close friends from high school and college is a sad commentary on our life style, Dallwig said. People tend to move on – both physically and socially – and continually make new friends and acquaintances along the way as they lose contact with former friends.

Curiosity is a prime motivation for people to attend a class reunion, accoring to Dallwig.

"We have a curiosity about what has happened to those we went to school with. We want to know how we compare with others who came from a similar background, and we want to know how our accon plishments measure up to the accomplishments of others," the psychologist said.

A successful businessman may attend a reunion to see whether ther are others who are more prosperous than he, or whether they have more prestigious titles and more company "perks." Others may want to match their social life, success in marriage, academic honors or physical condition with others from their class.

"It is also a part of life that is lost, and we wonder if we can recover it – if it was a happy time," Dallwig said. "I don't know how many people who were unhappy or unsuccessful in school want to attend a reunion, but time does tend to dim some of the unpleasant memories.

"Of course, there is an element of nostalgia that turns our attention to our high school or college days," he said.

"Reunions seem to be more popular in stable communities where people usually remain in or around their former school areas. They seem to be more of a suburban phenomenon than an urban one," Dallwig said. "Also, the frequency of reunions keeps the attention of the former students on them and probably enhances their interest in (them)."

Why do we find it necessary to attend reunions? It turns back the hands of time, according to a local psychologist. Memebers of the Wayne Memorial Class of 1958 (above) gathered in August for their 30th-year reunion. ANP file photo

Reunion

Of 360 students in the Wayne Memorial Class of 1958, only 23 could not be contacted for the 10th reunion.

And, with that reunion out of the way, the 20th-year event soon arrived.

"We thought it would all be easier because we had all of the materials together. No way," Siano said.

By the time the 20th reunion rolled around, Siano said, classmates had moved away, been divorced and remarried for the second or third time. Their parents had died.

In the end, however, the detective efforts paid off, and the reunion was well attended.

"We heard from many more people than we thought we would, and, two months before the reunion, we had to find another place to have it," Siano said.

In August, class members gathered again for the 30th reunion. Siano and her reunion organizers were able to locate about one-half of the original Class of 1958.

And, despite lower attendance figures than in years past, this reunion was the envy of them all.

"I wanted people to walk into Fellows Creek and think they were back in the '50s," Siano said.

To attain that goal, Siano went on a year-long scavenger hunt, searching for items from the 1950s era.

"We really blew out all the stops," Siano said.

The hall was decorated with juke boxes, old movie posters, furniture from the '50s, old records and anything else Siano could get her hands on.

Daly Dogs were served as hors d'oeuvres, and the A&W Root Beer flowed.

"There really isn't much of the '50s left around here," Siano said.

Siano and the other planners set up a sweet shop in the hall, which became a favorite picture-taking spot.

The reunion was clearly a success. Siano would suggest similar themes for other reunions, as long as organizers are willing to spend some time gathering the props.

"I don't know what kind of an encore we could think up," she said.

Other favorite reunion activities include hanging up a large map and putting pins where classmates now live, putting up a brag board on which grandmothers can show off grandchildren, making name tags using old yearbook photos, putting together a scrapbook using old class pictures and pictures from past reunions and staging dance contests.

The number-one activity at class reunions, however, is chatting, all will agree.

"I don't think anybody shut their mouth the whole night," Siano said.

And why not? Isn't that the main reason we feel compelled to become re-united every five, 10 or, maybe, 30 years?

Lucky me. This week, the mailman brought me a special present from the folks at the Kraft Company. Everybody knows them, they are the people who brought us kitchen staples like marshmallows, grated parmesan cheese in a can, real mayonnaise and Lender's Bagels. Anyway, this week, they sent me a cream cheese cookbook, retail value $1.50.

The Kraft people claim, in a press release, that the booklet is no longer available in stores and to get one it is necessary to send $1.50 to "Philly" Recipe Book Offer, P.O. Box 7291, Dept. F.E., Clinton, Idaho 52736.

There are recipes for main dishes, appetizers, salads and great desserts among the 100 uses for cream cheese detailed in the 96-page book. I was impressed.

Chocolate turtle cheesecake

2 cups vanilla wafer crumbs
6 tablespoons melted margarine

Combine crumbs and margarine. Press onto the bottom and sides of a 9-inch springform pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes.

For the filling:

1 14-ounce bag Kraft Caramels
1 5-ounce can evaporated milk
1 cup chopped pecans, toasted
2 8-ounce packages Philadelphia Brand Cream Cheese, softened
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs
1/2 cup semi-sweet chocolate chips, melted

In 1 1/2-quart heavy saucepan, melt caramels with milk over low heat, stirring frequently until smooth. Pour over crust. Top with pecans. Combine cream cheese, sugar and vanilla, mixing at medium speed on electric mixer until well blended. Add eggs, one at a time, mixing well after each addition. Blend in chocolate and pour over pecans. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes. Loosen cake from the rim of the pan and cool before removing rim. Chill. Garnish with whipped cream.

Amaretto peach cheesecake

3 tablespoons margarine
1/3 cup sugar
1 egg
3/4 cup flour

Combine margarine and sugar until light and fluffy. Blend in egg. Add flour and mix well. Spread dough onto bottom of a 9-inch springform pan. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes.

For the filling:

3 8-ounce packages Philadelphia Brand Cream Cheese, softened
3/4 cup sugar
3 tablespoons flour
3 eggs
1 16-ounce can peach halves, drained, pureed
1/4 cup almond-flavored liqueur (Amaretto)

Combine cream cheese, sugar and flour, mixing at medium speed on electric mixer until well blended. Add eggs, one at a time, mixing well after each addition. Add peaches and liqueur and mix well. Pour over crust. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes. Reduce oven temperature to 250 dgrees and continue to bake for 65 minutes. Loosen cake from rim of pan and cool before removing rim. Chill. Garnish with peach slices and sliced almonds.

THE AUTUMN HARVEST

▲ 'Tis the season for a squash sensation, according to Sandy Suddendorf (above), a local grower. The squash crop survived the summer drought, Suddendorf said, and is now ready for the harvest – and the dinner table. Pictured with Sandy is her granddaughter, Jenna Floyd, 3. Squash sensations

The odd-looking, colorful veggie has great taste

By EVON SAJKOVIC
ANP Staff Writer

'Tis the season for the incredible, edible squash.

Who would have thought that such an odd-looking vegetable could be the main ingredient for so many delicious recipes?

Only those cooks whose imagination can take them past the odd colors, shapes and sizes of the squash have dared to use them in their own recipes.

But, alas, the squash is not only nutritious and easy to cook, it is one of the most delicious vegetables harvested during the cool fall months. But do not be fooled, there is not just one type of generic squash. There are many different types, and all fulfill a specific purpose or taste.

The cooks who work with squash are often pleasantly surprised by the versatility and good taste of it.

There are also those who knew right from the start what a great cooking find squash can be.

One of these cooks is Sandy Suddendorf, of Canton Township, who not only grows her own squash but uses it in a variety of different recipes to enhance the taste of the entire dinner.

"I like working with squash because it is versatile and because it has a flavor all its own," Suddendorf said.

As a grower of the vegetable, Suddendorf said squash is as resilient during growth as it is during the preparation and cooking stages.

"The drought took a toll on all vegetables, but the squash can survive with a minimal amount of water," she said. "If they could survive this summer, they can survive anything."

Squash are planted in spring and harvested in fall. In order to find the perfect squash, Suddendorf recommends picking a zucchini that is about 7 inches long, to ensure that it will be ripe but that the seeds inside will not be too big.

When picking acorn squash, one should look for dark-green coloring, with a touch of orange on one side. When picking butternut squash, look for the deepest coloring of beige available, Suddendorf said.

She also recommends that squash not be frozen, as it tends to become soggy.

"There really isn't any need to freeze it because it lasts quite a long time," she said.

And the best thing about cooking with squash, Suddendorf said, is that the vegetables can take on any taste or consistency, depending on how they are prepared.

The following recipes are just a few of the ways to serve up the incredible, edible squash, including one of Sandy Suddendorf's best.

Esther Nation's zucchini nut bread

2 eggs
1 cup oil
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups sugar
2 cups peeled and grated zucchini
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt

FIGHTING CHILDHOOD FEVERS

By Guthikonda N. Rao, M.D.

Take an informal survey in any pediatrician's office and you'll probably find that a large share of the children coming in to see the doctor are children who have a fever.

A fever is the elevation of body temperature above the normal. Fevers have been recognized by physicians as a sign of disease for centuries and have, no doubt, worried uncountable parents for all that time, too!

WHAT'S NORMAL? WHAT'S TOO HIGH?

Normal body temperature is 98.6° Farenheit (oral). In children under 5, temperatures are usually taken under the arm where they are 1° lower than oral temperatures.

All the temperatures listed here are underarm readings. Note that normal body temperature may be slightly higher, if measured in the evening.

- Fever — over 100°
- High fever — 104° or over

The majority of children with high fevers are usually only fighting off a virus. (You know how common that can be, especially now that children are back in school, "sharing" more germs with each other.)

HOW SHOULD I HANDLE CHILDHOOD FEVERS?

- Keep the child's clothing light or minimal.
- Encourage the child to take extra fluids.

To reduce a child's fever:

- 100° or more — Administer medication containing acetaminophen as the active ingredient (such as Tylenol®, Tempra®, Panadol®, or Liquiprin®).
- 104° or more — Sponge the child with lukewarm water. (DO NOT use rubbing alcohol, which can be absorbed through the skin and cause alcohol poisoning.)

Parents should consult a pediatrician as soon as possible when:

- Any child under 3 months old has a fever.
- Any older child has a fever for more than 24 hours.
- Any child with a fever has additional symptoms like a stiff neck, difficulty breathing, painful urination, delirium, irritability, or no appetite.
- A child's fever has come down but the child still isn't feeling and acting like he or she does when well.

WHAT EFFECTS DO FEVERS HAVE?

Loss of body fluid is common because a child's perspiration increases. Also, seizures can occur if body temperature rises rapidly. Seizures associated with fevers are most common in children between 6 months and 6 years old, but children who suffer them enjoy normal health without any physical or mental impairment later in life. In other words, fever rarely causes any permanent harm. Isn't that good news for children and worried parents?

FIJI'S BLUE LAGOON

For the ultimate Fiji experience, take a three day cruise on the fabulous Blue Lagoon. The Yasawa Islands are in a rare and beautiful corner of the South Pacific.

Leave civilization behind and picture yourself snorkeling in transparent waters or walking on white sand beaches with not a soul in sight. Be lazy on the ship's sun deck and deepen your tan, learn the rhythms of island songs. When your ship anchors, discover thatch hut villages among the coconut palms.

Are you a shell collector? You'll find some rare varieties at the shell market here. The spectacular tropical sunsets are followed by a traditional Figian feast, cooked in an underground oven by the crew. Dance to the music of gentle guitars.

Cruising time each day is only four hours, allowing plenty of time for exploring, swimming or sunning. Relax in your private paradise; each day will be an unforgettable experience!

The three day cruise is $426 per person sharing a double cabin. Air transportation additional.
